

This technical drawing illustrates a cross-section of a roof edge detail. It shows a parapet wall on the left, a sloped roof surface with a drainage channel, and a sloped ground surface on the right. A red bracket labeled '2' is positioned on the parapet wall, indicating a specific detail or material layer. The drawing uses various hatching patterns to represent different materials and structural components.

